

With Erasmus+ and the Kerschensteinerschule in Ireland

Thanks to Erasmus+ and the Kerschensteinerschule, I was able to benefit from a three month long internship in Ireland. This internship took place in a laboratory with three of my classmates.

It was really nice that our host company really integrated us into the company, we had the same tasks and responsibilities as the other employees. Over the three month period, we got to familiar with all the ins and outs of the company. From the delivery of samples by the customer, the preparation of the samples and the measurement of the results. Nevertheless, most of our work was analysing and testing the samples.

Our colleagues were always very friendly and treated us as colleagues and not as students.

We used the weekends to explore the Irish cities and countryside. My favourite was the medieval city of Kilkenny with its castle and cathedrals.

I would recommend this experience to anyone who has the opportunity to do so. Many thanks to Erasmus and the Kerschensteinerschule for making this experience possible.
